The Modern Slavery Act (MSA) 2015 covers four activities:

Slavery Exercising powers of ownership over a person

Servitude The obligation to provide services is imposed using coercion

Forced or compulsory labor Work or services are exacted from a person under the menace of any penalty and for which the person has not offered themselves voluntarily

Human trafficking Arranging or facilitating the travel of another person with a view to their exploitation

Modern slavery is a complex and multi-faceted crime and tackling it requires many organizations and individuals to play a part. At first glance, individuals may think this subject is irrelevant to us, but it's not. At a very basic level, of course preventing exploitation and human trafficking, and protecting our workforce and reputation makes good business sense. The MSA 2015 recognizes the important part businesses can and should play in tackling slavery and encourages them to do more. With this in mind, we need to pay particularly close attention to our supply chain, especially those areas which have historically proven to be at risk of the activities in Clause 1:

- Outsourced activities such as cleaning, waste management, etc.
- Short term hire of low skilled labor
- Sourcing of raw materials from certain locations in the world.

Rontex Limited managers and colleagues have responsibilities to ensure our fellow workers are safeguarded, treated fairly and with dignity. Everyone must observe this Policy and be aware that 'turning a blind eye' is unacceptable and simply not an option.

The Company

We will:

- (a) Maintain clear policies and procedures preventing exploitation and human trafficking, and protecting our workforce and reputation
- (b) Be clear about our recruitment policy
- (c) Examine our supply chains and be clear with key suppliers our expectations regarding the Act
- (d) Lead by example by making appropriate checks on all employees, recruitment agencies, suppliers, etc to ensure we know who is working for us
- (e) Ensure we have in place an open and transparent grievance process for all staff
- (f) Seek to raise awareness so that our colleagues know what we are doing to promote their welfare
- (g) Make a clear statement that we take our responsibilities to our employees and our clients seriously

Managers

Managers will:

- (a) Listen and be approachable to colleagues
- (b) Respond appropriately if they are told something that might indicate a colleague is in an exploitative situation
- (c) Remain alert to indicators of slavery
- (d) Raise the awareness and ensure all employees are provided a copy of this policy and be aware of their responsibilities
- (e) Use their experience and professional judgement to gauge situations

Colleagues

We all have responsibilities under this policy. Whatever your role or level of seniority, you must:

- (a) Keep your eyes and ears open—if you suspect someone (a colleague or someone in our supply chain) is being controlled or forced by someone else to work or provide services, follow our reporting procedure
- (b) Follow our reporting procedure if a colleague tells you something you think might indicate they are or someone else is being exploited or ill-treated
- (c) Tell us if you think there is more, we can do to prevent people from being exploited.

The Risks

The principal areas of risk we face, related to slavery and human trafficking, include:

- Certain areas of the supply chain have been identified as being at a higher risk
- Recruitment either through agencies or direct

We manage these risk areas through our procedures set out in this policy.

Our Procedures

Anti-Slavery Statement

We make a clear statement that we take our responsibilities to our employees, people working within our supply chain and our clients seriously, and this is updated once a year.

Supply Chains

We tell the companies we do business with, that we are not prepared to accept any form of exploitation. We apply reasonable due diligence to risk assessing our supply chain.

Recruitment

- (a) We always ensure all staff have a written contract of employment.
- (b) We always ensure staff are legally able to work in the UK.
- (c) We provide information to all new recruits on their statutory rights including sick pay, holiday pay and any other benefits they may be entitled to.

Identifying Slavery

There is no typical victim and some victims do not understand they have been exploited and are entitled to help and support.

However, the following key signs could indicate that someone may be a slavery or trafficking victim: - The person is not in possession of their own passport, identification, or travel documents. - The person is acting as though they are being instructed or coached by someone else. - They allow others to speak for them when spoken to directly. - They are dropped off and collected from work. - The person is withdrawn, or they appear frightened. - The person does not seem to be able to contact friends or family freely. - The person has limited social interaction or contact with people outside their immediate environment.

This list is not exhaustive.

Remember, a person may display several the trafficking indicators set out above, but they may not necessarily be a victim of slavery or trafficking. Often you will build up a picture of the person's circumstances which may indicate something is not quite right.

If you have a suspicion, report it to the HR Department who will follow our reporting procedures.

Reporting Slavery

Talking to someone about your concerns may stop someone else from being exploited or abused. If you think that someone is in immediate danger, dial 999. Otherwise, you should discuss your concerns with the Human Resources Manager who will decide a course of action which may include contacting the Police. Not all victims may want to be helped and there may be instances where reporting a suspected trafficking case puts the potential victim at risk, so it is important that in the absence of an immediate danger, you discuss your concerns first with the Human Resources Manager before taking any further action.

Training

We ensure that all employees are made aware of this policy, and their obligation to comply with this policy.

Monitoring Our Procedures

We will review our Anti-slavery policy regularly, at least annually. We will provide information and/or training on any changes we make.
